JOHN MARSHALL TAPS DREW BROWN
Growing Bank Expanding Presence In Arlington Region

[Arlington, VA] [December 3, 2010] – Today John Marshall Bank, one of the most respected, well capitalized and successful community banks in the Washington metro area, announced the addition of Drew Brown to its team of banking leaders. Mr. Brown, a Senior Vice President will be based in John Marshall Bank’s Arlington branch.

“We are thrilled to have Drew come on board” said John Maxwell, John Marshall Bank’s Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. . “Drew is a native of Northern Virginia and he brings close to 30 years of local market banking experience to our team in Arlington. Drew has a long history with the key management in our organization, and everyone is very excited that he has joined us.”

Mr. Brown was most recently the Chief Lending Officer with Main Street Bank responsible for management of the commercial lending team, lending, and business development prior to joining John Marshall Bank. Prior to that, Mr. Brown provided consulting services to Chain Bridge Bank during its start-up phase, and he was a Regional Executive with James Monroe Bank before it was acquired.

The addition of new senior leaders like Drew Brown is being seen as a true demonstration of John Marshall Bank’s strength as a well-run bank, especially in today’s economy. The bank recently announced the opening of a new branch in Rockville, MD.

John Marshall Bank first opened to the public in Falls Church, Virginia in May 2006. Since that time, customer service, satisfaction, and success have inspired the bank’s leaders who have helped it to grow into one of the areas most respected and well capitalized banks.

“John Marshall Bank’s business model is based largely on people” Maxwell continued. “We seek to hire talent, and expand the company based on the strengths of our bankers like Drew”.
