JOHN MARSHALL BANK EXPANDS ALEXANDRIA PRESENCE

Addition of Charlie Collum is testament to bank's commitment to Alexandria

[Alexandria, VA] [September 5, 2012] – Today John Marshall Bank welcomed Charles “Charlie” K. Collum, Jr., to its team of executive leaders. Mr. Collum will be based in John Marshall Bank’s Alexandria office as an executive officer.

“To say I am delighted to have Charlie join our bank team in Alexandria is an understatement” said John Maxwell, John Marshall Bank’s Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. “Charlie’s 50 plus years serving the Alexandria community as a banker, his reputation as a man of integrity and his popularity throughout Alexandria makes this a perfect partnership as we steadily increase our presence in the Alexandria business community.”

Charlie Collum joined Burke and Herbert Bank in 1971. Hired by David Burke, Collum’s first job was assistant vice president, and over the years the rest is history. Collum became chairman of Burke and Herbert in 2003, and only the second non-Burke to serve in that position over its 150 year history.

Collum resides in Alexandria. He and his wife, Sandi, have two grown sons. Charlie attended St. Mary’s School in Old Town from kindergarten to eighth grade and launched his banking career in 1960 after graduating from St. John’s College High School.

“I have spent my entire banking career in Alexandria. I know the community and what they want from a bank, and I am delighted to bring this experience to John Marshall Bank,” said Collum. “John Marshall Bank reminds me of the best of community banking in Alexandria, with a business model committed to serving the community, and accessibility and loyalty to its customers. I am delighted to be re-uniting with my former Burke and Herbert colleagues, Eric Dorn and Pam DeCandio at John Marshall Bank. I am excited about the role I can play assisting this great bank in establishing a larger presence in Alexandria.”

Collum’s decision to play an executive role in John Marshall Bank is seen as a demonstration of John Marshall Bank’s strength and commitment to the Alexandria community. The young bank has five branches, a loan production office in Alexandria and one in the District of Columbia. John Marshall Bank's corporate offices are in Reston.

John Marshall Bank first opened to the public in Falls Church, Virginia in May 2006. Since that time, customer service, satisfaction, and success have inspired the bank's leaders who have helped it to grow into one of the areas most respected and well capitalized banks.

"John Marshall Bank's business model is based largely on people" Maxwell continued. "We welcome the cream of the crop to serve the needs of our customers. We welcome the strengths Charlie Collum brings."
