JOHN MARSHALL BANK TAPS BRUCE GEMMILL
Growing Bank Pulls in Executive Marketing Talent

[Alexandria, VA] [June 1, 2011] – Today John Marshall Bank, one of the fastest growing community banks in the Washington metro area, announced the addition of Bruce Gemmill to its team of banking leaders. Mr. Gemmill, senior vice president/chief marketing officer, will be based in John Marshall Bank’s Fairfax headquarters.

“Our ability to attract top talent like Bruce is a testament to our bank’s growing strength and excellent reputation. We are extremely pleased to have Bruce as part of our executive team,” said John Maxwell, John Marshall Bank’s Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. “His active community involvement, as well as the depth of marketing knowledge that he brings, will ensure our brand is strengthened throughout the Washington, DC metropolitan area.”

For the past 21 years, Bruce Gemmill has run a successful advertising and public relations agency, now located in Herndon, and has been active in the community. In addition to running the agency, Bruce was appointed in 2010 by Governor Bob McDonnell to serve on the Government Reform & Restructuring Commission. Bruce also serves on the Executive Committee and Board of Directors for the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce and is the Policy Chair; is President of the Catholic Business Network of Northern Virginia; immediate past Chairman for the Loudoun Destination Foundation; Immediate past Chairman of the Board of Trustees Loudoun Center for the Performing Arts; Immediate Past-Chairman of the Board of Trustees for The Avalon Education Group (Montgomery County, MD); Board of Directors Loudoun Convention and Visitors Association; past Commissioner, Town of Leesburg; Member of Leadership Loudoun (’07); Public Policy and Small Business Committees for the Loudoun Chamber of Commerce; PAC Trustee with the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce.

A native of Washington, DC, Bruce attended graduate school at American University, undergraduate school at Old Dominion University and high school at the Bullis School in Potomac, Maryland.

“I am delighted to join John Marshall Bank. The bank has been a client, and as a result, I have known the bank management team. The bank’s emphasis on community involvement and its customer first philosophy sets it apart from traditional area banks” explained Gemmill. “Moving from my own business to John Marshall Bank will be an easy transition, and I am extremely pleased to be a part of this wonderful bank.”

The addition of a new executive leader like Bruce Gemmill is being seen as a true demonstration of John Marshall Bank's strength as a well-run bank, especially in today's economy. The bank has branches in Leesburg, Fairfax, Rockville, Arlington and Falls Church, and soon will open a branch and its new headquarters in Reston, scheduled for August.

John Marshall Bank first opened to the public in Falls Church, Virginia in May 2006. Since that time, customer service, satisfaction, and success have inspired the bank's leaders who have helped it to grow into one of the areas most respected and well capitalized banks.

"John Marshall Bank's business model is based largely on people" Maxwell continued. "We seek to hire talent, and expand the company based on the strengths of our executives like Bruce."
